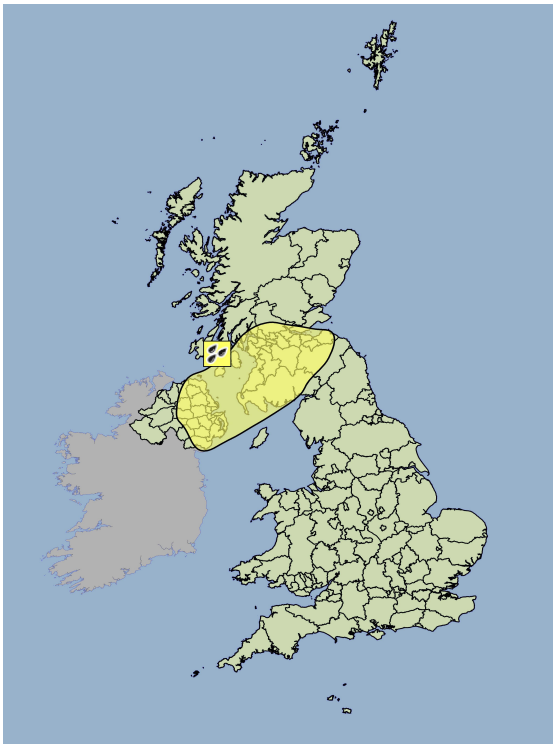
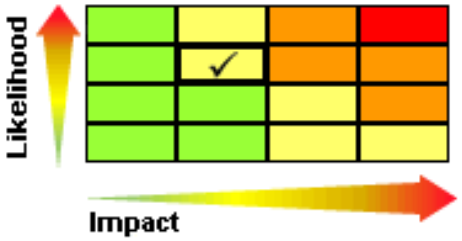
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
An active cold front will move southeastwards across central and southern Scotland and Northern Ireland this morning accompanied by a band of heavy rain. Some 15-30 mm of rain could fall in 3 to 6 hours. The rain should clear from the northwest during the morning.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 04:00 on Tue, 28th Oct 2014 until 10:00 on Tue, 28th Oct 2014

A band of rain, heavy at times, will move southeastwards across central and southern Scotland and Northern Ireland during this morning, affecting rush-hour traffic in particular. In addition, strong and gusty winds are likely at times, particularly across southeast Scotland.

The public should be aware of difficult traveling conditions due to standing water and spray.

The worst of the rain is expected to have cleared from Glasgow and Belfast by around 0900 and the rest of the area by late morning.
